Morningside Park Field Trip Brooklyn College' s Fall Field Trip to Morningside Park Was a Success

If there' s one season that' s truly enchanting in Toronto, it' s undoubtedly autumn, when the forests are ablaze with color. Last Friday, students from Brooklyn College School in Canada set out under the bright autumn sun for Morningside Park—a hidden gem in Scarborough—to embark on a soothing yet lively fall field trip.

Morningside Park, with its vast expanse, is a natural treasure trove tucked away from the hustle and bustle of downtown Toronto. It preserves a typical Ontario ecosystem, where old-growth forests, streams, and wetlands intertwine, offering students and faculty an ideal retreat from the city's commotion to reconnect with nature.

Amid the laughter and cheerful chatter along the way, the students arrived safely at their destination on the school bus, and everyone immersed themselves fully in the embrace of nature.

Under the teachers' well-organized grouping arrangements, a vibrant and fun-filled outdoor sports session began. The expansive lawn was brimming with youthful energy everywhere.

Field Trip

Full of Energy, Enjoying Outdoor Time to the Fullest

On the green field, the Outdoor Soccer matches were intense yet joyful, with everyone running, passing the ball, and working up a sweat; the lightweight and fun Spike Ball was a big hit, as team members worked together, played agile offense and defense, and remained focused and fully engaged; The Outdoor Frisbee area is equally bustling, with students chasing the disc, running, and catching and throwing with perfect timing, freely enjoying the joy of outdoor sports. These diverse and fun activities allow everyone to strengthen friendships through collaboration, relieve stress through exercise, and fully immerse themselves in the fun of outdoor team-building.

Fireworks Picnic: Sharing an Autumn Feast

At lunchtime, a warm and bountiful outdoor barbecue feast unfolded as planned. The teachers prepared exquisite and plentiful dishes in the designated picnic area; the table, overflowing with delicious food, soothed away all fatigue. The aroma of hot dogs, hamburgers, and pulled roast chicken filled the air, complemented by fresh salads, exquisite desserts, and ice-cold drinks. Everyone gathered around the picnic area, enjoying the food and sharing in the joy. Laughter and cheerful chatter echoed through the woods, creating a lively and festive atmosphere that perfectly captured the beauty and warmth of this special autumn moment.

A Stroll Through the Woods: Discovering the Charms of Autumn

After a hearty meal, the students wandered through the woods in groups. Strolling along Highland Creek, they immersed themselves in Toronto's spectacular autumn scenery. In autumn, Morningside Park is like an oil painting meticulously colored by nature. The layered trees have shed their emerald green, taking on a gradient of crimson, gold, and warm orange, while fallen leaves carpet the ground in a tapestry of colors. Observant students might even spot traces of small animals among the leaves, adding a touch of wild adventure to the hike. A Bonfire Picnic: Sharing an Autumn Feast

Brooklyn College

From outdoor activities where students ran freely, to cozy picnics filled with the warmth of a bonfire, to peaceful and restorative walks through the woods, Brooklyn's fall Field Trip was a complete and fulfilling experience. It allowed students to step out of the classroom and into the great outdoors, where—amidst the autumn breeze, falling leaves, and warm sunshine—they discovered the beauty of nature and gained a unique sense of growth.

Brooklyn College has always believed that education extends beyond the classroom and personal growth goes beyond the pages of a book; while learning on campus builds knowledge, experiences in the mountains and wilderness nurture the spirit. Through connecting with nature and embracing the outdoors, students learn to observe, understand the value of companionship, and take joy in collaboration. This broadens their horizons, soothes their minds, and cultivates the beautiful qualities of a love for life and a reverence for nature.

By immersing themselves in authentic natural settings, students not only build physical strength and foster teamwork through outdoor activities, but also step outside the confines of the classroom to experience the vibrancy and beauty of nature up close. These valuable experiences beyond the campus are a vivid example of how Brooklyn College supports students' well-rounded development and cultivates their comprehensive competencies, while also helping them build the essential soft skills needed for future applications to the world's top universities.
